

This is a classic pingueculum, a thickening of the conjunctiva with often some yellowish discoloration. They can be either nasal or temporal and are often bilateral.